

Interest to be charged on delinquent Bay bills

WAYNE DUCOMBE JR., Hancock County Board of Supervisors, said that the county will begin charging interest on delinquent Bay bills starting next month. The county has accumulated $1.2 million in delinquent bills, and the interest will be charged at a rate of 12 percent per annum. The bills are for the Bay St. Louis area, which is a popular vacation spot. The county has been having trouble collecting the bills, and the interest is being added to the principal amount. Redistricting could prompt re-registration

By WAYNE DUCOMBE JR.
Hancock County redistricting could prompt re-registration of all eligible voters.

At least two Hancock County communities might be enveloped by neighboring districts in an effort to equalize populations in each of county's five districts.

The proposed redistricting plan would divide the county into five districts. The plan would divide the county into five districts. The plan would divide the county into five districts. The plan would divide the county into five districts.

However, Jeff Taylor, Gulf Regional Planning Commission's Hancock coordinator, and Walter Gert, board member, suggest county-wide redistricting as a wise move to follow.

But, Taylor reported, GRPC formulated its proposals based on requirements of the Justice Department—the final authority.

Sam Peracchini, District Four supervisor, said he would accept the plan. A.A. Dolph, District Two supervisor, said he would accept the plan. A.A. Dolph, District Two supervisor, said he would accept the plan.

Hawks beefing defenses against Aggie aerials

By ELLA CUEVAS
The Hancock North Central Hawks in the Deep South Hawks will be beefing up their defenses against the Aggie aerials in the first game of the season.

Hancock Coach Irvin Favre said, "I was glad to see the turnout last Friday. I feel it is a tribute to both Hancock and Stanislaus and it was an exciting crowd. It was the largest turnout for a Hawks game in my 11 years with the Hawks."

Favre stated, "They need the ball a lot and we have been working very hard on pass defense this week as well as the fundamentals. We realize we did not do a good job in pass defense against the Rock-A-Chaw last week and need some improvements."

The Hawks came out of the Stanislaus contest without any injuries and all should be ready for the Aggies Friday. Kick-off is 7:00 p.m. in Hawk Stadium.

Head Coach Irvin Favre said, "I hope the Hawks fans will see a Hancock win right here in our stadium Friday night."

Wildlife sets special season

Mississippi waterfowl hunters will get their first taste of hunting on Saturday as the state's special teal season opens.

The five-member Commission voted Friday, Sept. 4, for a 50-day split season which will extend from Dec. 12-13, reopen Dec. 15 and close Jan. 31.

The special nine-day season will give hunters an opportunity to harvest blue-winged and green-winged teal, some of the earliest migrating waterfowl to pass through the state each year.

Shooting hours of teal are from sunrise until sunset. The daily bag limit on the teal flying birds is four with a possession limit of eight.

Wildlife biologists with the agency's Jackson office suggest that hunters might find huntable populations of teal located around the shallow water edges of lakes, ponds, rice fields, reservoirs and large rivers.

Hunters can usually identify teal by looking for the birds in small, tight, fast-moving flocks. At close range they are small, dark-brown ducks with a sizeable light-blue patch on the upper leading edge of the wings.

WATERFOWL HUNTING

Mississippi waterfowl hunters will have a 50-day hunting season as a result of recent action by the state Department of Wildlife Conservation this week.

The season on blues, snows and white-fronted geese opens Oct. 3 and closes Nov. 1, reopening Dec. 12 and extending through Jan. 20. The bag limit is five, including not more than two white-fronted geese. The possession limit is two.

Strong said that Mississippi waterfowl hunters are heading into their second season in which drought conditions on the prairie breeding grounds of Canada have affected waterfowl production.

"We have been briefed by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and advised that the overall fall flight of ducks coming South this year should be similar to last year," Strong said.

The mallard flight, which is this state's most popular duck, is expected to be down some 16 percent from last year. So, we may be looking at reduced numbers this year.

Strong explained that the mallards that will come South will be mostly adult birds which have been hunted before. They are wary birds and many times gun and decoy shy. Hunters will need to make every shot count and wear some good camouflage.

Mississippi duck hunters will use the same point value system as last year for harvesting ducks.

Birds and their point values include: canvasback, 100; hen mallard, wood duck, black duck, hooded merganser, and redhead, 70 points; drake mallard, ring-necked, mottled duck, bufflehead, ruddy duck, and goldeneye, 25 points; pintail, gadwall, shoveler, blue and green-winged teal, lesser scaup, wigeon, and all other birds, 10 points.

Hunters are allowed birds totaling 100 points daily. The daily limit is reached when the point value of the last bird taken is added to birds already harvested, and the total reaches or exceeds 100 points. The possession limit is two legal daily limits.

The Bay High Tigers will take on the Pass Christian Pirates this Friday at 7:30 in Pass Christian.
Bay Coach Souly Smith said the Tigers have been working hard this week on their passing defense.
"We didn't have a good passing defense against Stone," Smith said. "In reference to the Tigers first game last weekend against the Stone County Tigers. The Tigers won that game regardless. 2-18.

They didn't pass that much, but they did they hurt us. So we've been practicing and we'll be ready," he said.

Smith noted he hoped to run a game from nine

But we'll be ready. We'll be we have the best football team and our athletes will be hard mentally and physically," he said.

We're definitely going over there to win.

Prehistoric species provides unusual sport

By TOM HOAR
DAILY MISSISSIPPIAN
NEWS SERVICE

In October, the thoughts must Mississippi sportsmen turn to dogs, furs and game. Not many think of fishing. After all, it's hard to get fish to bite in late fall, isn't it?

The few who do fish don't worry about getting fish to bite, yet often catch fish over 70 pounds. These fishermen are members of an elite group who participate in the sport of "snagging."

hope to catch the spoonbills, a scoules' tinnowback, from prehistoric times. The fish, also called "paddlerfish" in some areas, is a plant-eater. Therefore, it is impossible to catch one with conventional bait, even natural such as minnows and earthworms. The spoonbill has no bones but a skeleton of cartilage. A long, spoon-shaped "bill" gives it its name. Spoonbills grow to be enormous, and specimens up to 100 pounds are common. Snaggers have no idea

Wildcats looking for first Bobcat victory in years

Pearl River and Jones will engage in their annual "cat fight" this Saturday night at the R.L. Watkins stadium in Laurel.

As expected, both the PRC Wildcats and the Jones Bobcats are undefeated after one game, with PRC winning 27-14 over Mississippi Delta and Jones blasting Coahoma 42-27 last Saturday night.

For Pearl River College supporters the "contest" this Saturday is one of three guide-sticks Wildcat backers use at season's end to determine if PRC has had a good year.

The other two are the out-comes with Gulf Coast (Perk) and whether or not the Wildcats chalk up another state championship trophy.

As most junior college followers know, it's almost impossible to gain the crown without being successful in the other two endeavors.

"We want to win this week because it's a south division contest," said J.C. Arban, the Wildcat's head coach. "We must win it because it is against Jones."

For the past four years the Jones Bobcats have defeated the Wildcats.

Over the years very few teams have managed to post consecutive victories over the Wildcats, much less winning four straight years.

"It is very important for us to get back into the win column," said Arban, who last saw his team whip Jones Coach Cooley, 147, back in 1978. This was also the year the Wildcats won the state championship.

"We have a winning football tradition here at PRC," Arban said. "However, you can't keep losing to Jones and Perk and keep that tradition. Even if we go 2-2 every year, we still have to win our share of the cat fight."

Last year the Bobcats defeated PRC 17-0 here at Double Holden Stadium. Two years ago in the same Laurel stadium, Jones used a miraculous last minute drive and a 32 yard field goal to nip the Wildcats 27-27.

"We should have won that game" (the 1979 contest), Arban said. "We outplayed them and deserved to win." In 1978 the Cooley-led Bobcats won 17-0 and by a 27-8 in 1979. In fact, since 1949 the Wildcats hold a 19-14 edge in the series. Overall, dating back to the 1920's, Pearl River holds a 24-22-1 advantage.

No other junior college team in Mississippi has ever recorded more than 17 wins against the Pearl River Wildcats. PRC has also won the state championship on 14 different occasions, while Jones is in second place with 10 overall crowns.

"To lose this game has been devastating for us the past few years," Arban said. "To say the least, the outcome of Saturday's contest could very well determine the success of the entire year."

The 7:30 p.m. game in Laurel should be another classic in junior college football. "I expect a large following for this game," Arban said. "I guess this game and the Gulf Coast game has the most overall excitement of any we'll play all year."

"Students and supporters get in on the fun during this game," Arban said. "It will certainly be a big night for Mississippi Junior College football."

CRIDIRON GRABBERS

CRIDIRON GRABBERS are the most effective and safe way to pick up anything from a cigarette butt to a broken bottle. They are made of heavy-duty stainless steel and are available in a variety of sizes and shapes. They are perfect for use in homes, schools, and businesses. They are also a great gift for anyone who loves to keep their surroundings clean and tidy.

Hearns wallop cracks sparring partner's jaw

Welterweight Marlon Sparring, suffered a broken jaw last week in a sparring session with World Boxing Association champion Thomas Hearns in Las Vegas, according to area boxing matchmaker Vito Tullaro.

Emanuel Seward, Hearns' trainer and manager, stated that in all his years in boxing he had never seen a boxer receive a broken jaw while sparring with 16-ounce gloves.

This will give you an idea of the power in Hearns' right hand," stated Seward. "It was an overhand right. Right on the jaw," he continued.

Professional boxers wear eight-ounce gloves in the ring, but work out with the 16-ounce gloves to avoid injury to the pros and the sparring partners.

"They also wear a heavy padded head protector, but Hearns is such a devastating puncher he may have to go to a proposed 18-ounce sparring glove, according to his manager."

Hearns has won all 32 of his professional bouts, knocking out 30 of his opponents, and is considered to be the hardest puncher in the history of the welterweight division.

The WBA Ring of Las Vegas is holding a World Championship bout with WBC champion Sugar Ray Leonard, scheduled for Wednesday at the Las Vegas Palace in Las Vegas.

Local fans may see the little bout on television, but it will not be shown at the local Coast Coliseum, beginning next year with five undercard bouts as a warm-up to the main event.

Reserved seats are $20 and $20.

General Admission seats are $15.

Tickets may be purchased at Lakeside's Health Club in Bay St. Louis.

Rocks prepare for Blue Devils

By RANDY FENDER

With one win under their belt, first-year head coach Fred [Name] and the St. Stanislaus football team will tackle the Blue Devils in their second consecutive road game.

Last week the Rocks A-Champs beat the Hawks of Hancock North Central 14-13 on the strength of Jack Dunham's boot.

Dunham booted two field goals in the contest to give the Rocks the win.

Game time is 7:30 p.m. in Cardinals in their Deen South Conference match-up.

New Caltech company reducing Space Shuttle tank weight

Caltech researchers have developed a new method for reducing the weight of the Space Shuttle external tank. The method involves using a new material called "Kevlar" to replace the aluminum currently used in the tank's structure. The new material is lighter and stronger than aluminum, and it can be used in a way that reduces the tank's weight by up to 10,000 pounds. The researchers say that this new method could save the shuttle program millions of dollars in the long run.

DRUG QUIZ

QUESTION: In 1964 the Surgeon General of the U.S. warned that cigarette smoking was dangerous to a person's health. Since that warning, the percentage of adult Americans who smoke has:

a) Dropped from 40% to 32%
b) Dropped from 75% to 68%
c) Increased from 35% to 41%
d) Increased from 59% to 65%

ANSWER: In the most recent report, Surgeon General C. Everett Koop stated that 32% of adult Americans now smoke, down from 40% in 1964. He cautioned pregnant women that those who smoke have more trouble in pregnancy, about more and fetal deaths, and higher mortality rates. He also pointed out that no "safe" cigarette exists. While low-tar and low-nicotine cigarettes offer some "limit" to reduction in risk of lung

The pocket knife: essential tool for a country boy

Of all the things sold in stores when I grew up, the one thing most desired and most prized by boys was a pocket knife.

Though money was extremely scarce, every boy I knew managed to possess one.

The old-time Barlow one-blade knife with horn handle could be bought for fifteen cents to twenty-five cents. The same knife costs about twenty times that much today.

I wanted a knife in the worst way when I was eight or ten years old, but my mother was afraid I'd cut myself with it and ruin my outfit.

After my long, persistent nagging, she gave me a downy egg and told me to go to the nearby country store and get a knife. I traded the egg for a twenty-cent Barlow knife.

Though cheap, the knife proved to be a good one.

My father happened upon me that an essential part of a boy's kit was a knife. I was in luck, and I showed cutting tools in an area that is rarely lost today.

The proper way to sharpen a knife is difficult, opposite the method was to sharpen it to get a chisel edge. The back part of the blade has to be slightly curved, and the edge pushed into and along the surface of the whet stone or grindstone, first one side and then the other.

A knife sharpened in this way will keep its edge much longer than if sharpened like a razor.

I had literally dozens of uses for my pocket knife, among them cutting and peeling sugar cane for chewing, delicious, and making whistles from a joint of wild cane.

With one of these whistles, I could communicate with a boy my age who lived a good half-mile away.

My father had to fashion Indian bows and arrows from cane, and I used to make bows and arrows for the boys in the neighborhood.

When I wanted to go fishing, I cut poles from dogwood trees and dogwood sprouts, which I would hang on a high rafters in the barn, letting the heavy end hang down to make perfectly straight fishing poles that would reach across some of our small nearby streams.

When there was occasion to dress wild game, such as rabbits, squirrels, and birds, in preparation for the table, my Barlow came in handy.

Not in my case, but on occasion a Barlow was used as a weapon, which brings to mind what a big, lanky boy of about 18 told me when I was showing him a pocket knife in my hardware store more than 50 years ago.

He looked carefully at several knives on display, opened them, and felt the sharp edges. Since he was being so careful, I gave him an examination, thinking I might help. I asked, "What are you going to use the knife for?"

Some of them boys been picking me over, and they don't like me. I'm gonna get some of them.

He bought a rather long-blade knife. With it, I gave him a little lecture on being careful about letting himself into trouble.

A few weeks later, this same young man came into my store. I asked him how he had gotten along. He replied, "When one of them boys came like he was gonna start picking on me again, I pulled out my knife, opened it up, and without saying anything, start cutting my fingernails. When that boy saw my knife, he didn't bother me no more."

Soybean-cattle farmers offered management option

Byron Jones, a spokesman for the Mississippi Soybean Producers Association, says that farmers who produce soybeans and cattle on the same land can grow their crops more profitably.

"Tests underway at the station may help these farmers decide what management practices will realize the highest economic returns from this agricultural combination," a Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service spokesman says.

Agricultural experts at the station gave an update on their research at the Poplarville station recently to about 100 farmers and agribusinessmen at a soybean field day. The group was briefed on production alternatives being tested for producing soybeans and cattle on the same acreage.

This crop combination is used as a management option in south and central Mississippi where long fall seasons and mild winters encourage forage growth for cattle to complement summer soybean crops, the spokesman explains.

Jordan says an important advantage of planting on a prepared seedbed with this kind of system is that it loosens soils packed by cattle as they graze.

He notes soybeans planted without soil preparation in the tests had shallow roots, showed drought symptoms more readily and probably would have lower yields.

But he added any yield increase in the soybeans planted on a prepared seedbed would have to be weighed against the added production costs associated with seedbed preparation.

The test is concerned with the economics of this harvesting system, Jordan says. He says the station is testing the system on a 10-acre plot.

TOP BANANA.

And we guarantee it.

When you choose produce, demand the very best. Sometimes a cheaper price means cheaper quality—undersize avocados, limp heads of lettuce, smaller grapes that are less plump, sweet and juicy. And that's no bargain.

But the quality is never cheap at Jitney. It's always up to our high standards...and yours. The highest possible quality at the lowest possible price. That's how we define excellent value in fresh produce.

The Kmart logo is displayed in a stylized, bold font. The letter 'K' is significantly larger and more prominent than the 'mart' part. Below the 'K', the word 'mart' is written in a smaller, lowercase, sans-serif font. To the right of 'mart', the tagline 'The Saving Place' is written in a smaller, italicized, sans-serif font. The entire logo is enclosed within a thick, black, rounded rectangular border.
